mirror. The emperor, Crown Prince, prince of blood, ministers of state and many other high dignitaries were present in the sacred hall of the imperial palace, and a religious service was solemnized according to the Shinto ritual. When the chief ritualist had repeated a Shinto prayer, Emperor Yoshihito read an address announcing the installation of Prince Hisa-ki. After this another ceremony was held in the state room of the palace where the imperial family received congratulations from the officials of the court and government. Notable among the well-wishers also were the ambassadors and ministers of states including George W. Guthrie, the American ambassador.

At noon an imperial banquet was given in the Homai hall of the palace. The Emperor and Empress partaking of the feast with a distinguished company including the diplomatic corps. The emperor delivered an address and the feast was accompanied with classical Japanese dances and both ancient Japanese and modern western music played by the artists and musicians of the court. most was presented with a beautiful keepsake—silver medal. The day was celebrated throughout the empire. The Tokyo municipality held an extraordinary meeting of the city council and sent a congratulatory address to the Emperor and Crown Prince. Similar greetings extended by both houses of the Diet. Great arches decorated with chrysanthemums were visible in front of the imperial palace and the Crown Princess' palace with profuse decorations of illumination at night. National flags and beautiful paper lanterns were above all doors even the most humble. The streets were gay with color. The framewalks were festooned with the imperial flora.

The mayor, aldermen and officials of the municipal board, as well as thousands of school children were assembled on the streets outside the imperial palace grounds and along the streets from the Crown Prince's palace and greeted with a mighty roar the future emperor as he was driven past from the historic ceremonies.

In a few days the Crown Prince accompanied by a specially appointed retinue will start on a tour of pilgrimage to the great shrines at first the mausolea of the first Emperor Ojin and of the late Emperor Monmu and of the Empress Kofuku, Minamoto and Kotoku at Nara and Kyoto.

Prince Hirohito is a man of ease. For several years Admiral Togo, the great naval hero of the Russo-Japanese war, has had the direction of his education which has been thorough and which continues vigorously.

also, Nov. 2—Mrs. Bird S. McGuire of this city Wednesday afternoon made her first appearance on the political stump in the interest of the Democratic party when she spoke before the Women's Hughes League and the Advocates of Women's Suffrage of Kansas City in that place.

Her husband, Bird McGuire, himself a well known politician and former congressman of this city, knew nothing of his wife's intentions to risk the stump in the interest of the Republicans, and the first intimation that he had of her stump speaking was contained in newspapers of Kansas city which devoted space to a short and picture of the Tulsa woman.

The mayor, aldermen and officials of the municipal board, as well as thousands of school children were assembled on the streets outside the imperial palace grounds and along the streets from the Crown Prince's palace and greeted with a mighty roar the future emperor as he was driven past from the historic ceremonies.

BRANDED AS AN IMPOSTER

Washington, Nov. 2—The Bulgarian minister to the United States, Dr. Panareff, declared today that the man who passed through San Antonio, Tex., yesterday, calling himself the Bulgarian minister to Mexico, was an impostor. Mr. Panareff says there is no minister or any other diplomatic representative of Bulgaria in Mexico.

The man gave his name as Nikolai von Vlach. Minister Panareff says the name is not Bulgarian and that he never heard it before.

TO INVESTIGATE

FARM TENANCY

Norman, Okla., Nov. 3—The farm country is vital question in the state of Oklahoma right now. Is the question of interest rates to farmers a thing that demands immediate consideration? Is it possible to aid the Oklahoma farmer by getting him to adopt methods of co-operative marketing?

Authorities at the University of Oklahoma answer each of these questions in the affirmative, and they are now planning to take the first great step toward solving a non-partisan solution to the paramount problem in the economic life of the state.

Under the auspices of the University of Oklahoma the leading experts of the United States, the leading legislators and bankers and business men and farmers and commercial club men and county demonstration agents in the southwest, will meet for two days at Norman, Okla., on Dec. 12 and 13, to investigate the true condition of the Oklahoma farmer and seek a solution for his three great problems.

The Answer is Found in the Straight Forward Statement of a Perkins
Resident.

We have been reading week after week in the local press of Guthrie

citizens who have been rid of distress

by Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that one wondered whether the same high opinion of this medicine is to be found in our neighboring towns.

This frank and earnest statement by a well-known and respected resident of Perkins will set this doubt at rest.

Mrs. J. J. Barth, Perkins, Okla., says:

"My experience with Doan's

Kidney Pills proved them to be a good kidney medicine. They relieved pains in my back from which I had suffered for some time and corrected the trouble with the kidney secretions. My little girl also had trouble from her kidneys, but Doan's

Kidney Pills soon removed the annoyance. We always keep this medicine on hand."
